Upper Walnut El Dorado Lake WRAPS (Watershed Restoration and Protection Strategy)

Water is Life, For All of Us!

Please join the Natural Resources Conservation Service, Butler County Conservation District, Farm Services Agency, K-State Research and Extension, Butler County Farm Bureau and Upper Walnut El Dorado Lake WRAPS for an open house featuring educational displays, ask an expert, give-a-ways and more!

- Learn about invasive noxious weeds and Old World Bluestem from NRCS Rangeland Management Specialist Doug Spencer.
- See how a solar pump can be used to fill a tank to water livestock.
(Provided by Jeff Davidson, K-State Research & Extension Watershed Specialist)
- Compare different types of electric fencing alternatives.
- Examine rainfall effects on cropland and rangeland with the Rainfall Simulator.
(Staffed by NRCS El Dorado Field Office)
- Have questions about USDA, Conservation District, Extension Service or Farm Bureau programs, farming, ranching, water, soils, cost share or technical assistance?
Ask an expert!
- Hear what's being done in the El Dorado Lake Watershed to protect our water supply. (El Dorado Lake WRAPS)
- Watershed model – observe how an area of land drains to a common point and how activities that occur in a watershed affect everyone downstream.
